

Update 03/31/2020

As the Novel Coronavirus (COVID-19) continues to evolve within the United States and abroad, we want to assure our customers that Nova Polymers has taken all recommended precautions to combat the spread within our organization and yours. We have taken the precautions that are recommended by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention \(CDC\) and encourage you and your business to adopt these best practices.

On Monday, March 2, Nova Polymers enacted an international travel ban to help safeguard our employees and our customers to do our part in helping to control the spread of Covid-19.

On Friday, March 13, Nova Polymers restricted all non-essential travel, domestic and abroad through April 6 and committed to monitoring the situation to assess the path forward.

Today, March 31, we are updating our restriction on travel to align with the administrations' recent decision to extend federal social distancing guidelines until the end of April.

While there are no guarantees when dealing with an "unknown" such as COVID-19, we did want to reassure our customers that our extended North American presence will allow the continued servicing of customers of all sizes and in all locations.

While we do not know what the future holds related to the spread of Covid-19, we do know we are in this together, and it will be together that we work through these challenging times to keep the cogs of our economy turning.

As conditions continue to develop, we will keep our customers – many who we call friends, updated with the most recent information. Follow us on Twitter, LinkedIn, and Facebook for the latest updates.

Dave Miller
Managing Director
Nova Polymers, Inc.